

Brand Confusion — Remediation Briefing for Prima Assicurazioni / Hello Prima

Prepared by: Prima Financial Services Ltd t/a Prima Insurance Brokers (FCA FRN 842275) Date of underlying review: 2 July 2026 (all observations captured with full-page screenshots and archived HTML; captures available on request) Purpose: provided at your request, to identify where your customers encounter our business when looking for yours, so that remediation can be put in place. This document is factual and is provided to assist remediation; it is without prejudice to the wider discussions between us.

1. The mechanism in one paragraph

Your customers do not know your brand as "Hello Prima" — they know it as "Prima" or "Prima insurance" (in a sample of 950 of your Trustpilot reviews, one reviewer used "Hello Prima"; the rest used "Prima", "Prima insurance" or "Prima car insurance"). When they need to contact you — claims, complaints, cancellations, mid-term changes — they search those terms. Because your published contact routes are hard to find and your own pages have historically been titled "Prima Insurance", the top results with a visible phone number are ours. The result: our office currently receives 30–50 misdirected telephone calls per day intended for you, plus a continual stream of misdirected emails and post, and we have received formal complaints, negative reviews, correspondence from solicitors and the police, and County Court Judgments relating to your policies.

2. Where your customers encounter us — by channel

2.1 Search engines (highest volume vector)

Observed on DuckDuckGo UK and Bing UK, 2 July 2026 (Google was not testable by our automated capture, but customer behaviour indicates the same pattern):

Query your customer types	What they see
"prima insurance phone number"	Our contact page is the #1 result on both engines , with our number 0330 088 1135 and email info@primainsurance.co.uk visible in the snippet without clicking. On Bing, our result sits directly beneath a map card for your London office labelled "Prima Insurance".
"prima insurance contact" / "prima car insurance contact" / "prima car insurance phone number"	We rank #1–2; our number is visible in snippets.
"hello prima contact number" / "helloprima phone number"	Even fully branded for you, our "Contact Prima" page ranks #2–4 with our number in the snippet; Bing flags your results "Missing: phone number" and renders our full entity card (number + Prestwich address).
"prima insurance complaints" / "prima complaints phone number"	Our terms page snippet displays our Complaints Department address and 0161 826 1620 — the only complaints number visible on the page. Bing's People-also-ask includes "How do I register a complaint with Prima Financial Services Ltd?"

Query your customer types	What they see
"prima insurance cancellation" / "prima car insurance cancellation"	Our terms page ranks #1–2 showing our Cancellations Department and 0330 118 0404.
Overall	Across 26 contact/claims/complaints/cancellation queries tested, both firms appear together in the top ~10 for 24; our live number is snippet-visible for 21.

2.2 Google Business Profile / Google Maps

- Both businesses' Google listings are named identically "Prima Insurance".
- Our listing displays +44 330 088 1135. Your listing displays no phone number at all — Google publicly invites anyone to "Add place's phone number" (an open crowd-edit invitation on your profile).
- A customer searching "Prima Insurance" on Google/Maps for their car insurer's number can be shown only our number.

2.3 AI answers and answer boxes

- Bing's AI-generated answer for "prima insurance claims number" cites helloprima.co.uk/claims and primainsurance.co.uk/contact as its two sources for one "Prima Insurance" — your claims number is being sourced-mixed with our contact page.
- AI search summaries observed during the review attributed "0330 088 1135 ... Prima House, 21 Bury New Road, Prestwich" (our details) to helloprima.co.uk, and described our numbers as "the official Prima car insurance contact numbers for the UK".

2.4 Your own website (root cause of much of the above)

- Your page titles used the exact phrase "Prima Insurance" continuously from December 2023 to at least October 2025 ("About Prima Insurance - Prima Insurance", "Making a Motor Insurance Claim - Prima Insurance", including the 404 page). These title tags are what search engines display and match our trading name.
- Your main site has never had a /contact or /complaints page (contact details live only on a help-centre subdomain), and the published phone number was removed from your "How can I contact you?" article during 2024. Customers who cannot find a number on your site search the open web — see 2.1.

2.5 Review platforms

- Trustpilot's own company search for "prima insurance" returns our profile first; yours appears seventh. Your Trustpilot business name displays as simply "Prima".
- Your reviewers repeatedly describe searching for a phone number ("There's no phone number to call which is worrying"; "I...googled you").
- A review has been posted on our Trustpilot profile that appears on its face to concern a motor policy of the type you underwrite; we also hold formal complaints and reviews received directly that relate to your policies.
- A public Google review on your own profile states the reviewer "called a company called Prima, who advised me to search for Hello Prima".

2.6 Price-comparison sites

Go.Compare lists you as "Prima Car Insurance"; Confused.com and Uswitch list "Prima" / "Prima Essentials" / "Prima Plus" / "Prima Premier". None uses "Hello Prima", none shows any contact details, and none disambiguates from us — customers are handed the bare word "Prima" and left to search (see 2.1).

2.7 Directories and third-party "contact" sites

- Directory listings exist for your business under the name "Prima Insurance, London" (e.g. Cylex) with no phone number, alongside our long-standing listings under "Prima Insurance"/"Prima Insurance Brokers" with our numbers.
- Third-party SEO "contact directory" pages actively misroute your customers: a live page titled "Prima Car Insurance Contact UK 2026: Phone, Claims & Complaints" (kaeltripton.com) instructs readers to use primainsurance.co.uk — our website — for your customer service, 24/7 claims and complaints, and never mentions helloprima.co.uk. A claims-management site (claimsnumber.com) advertises its own 0333 number as the "Prima Car Insurance Accident Claim" number.
- Your group X/Twitter handle is @Prima_Insurance (our trading name verbatim); your UK operation has no UK-facing social profiles, while our profiles publish our contact details.

3. Remediation actions within your control

Offered constructively; you will have your own views on feasibility.

1. Publish a findable UK phone number — on your main site (a /contact page on helloprima.co.uk itself, not only the help subdomain), on your Google Business Profile, and in your aggregator listings. This single change addresses the root cause: customers search the open web because no number is findable.
2. Fix your Google Business Profile: correct the name (it should not read "Prima Insurance"), add your phone number, and claim/verify it so the public cannot edit it.
3. Retitle your web pages so they no longer use "Prima Insurance" (our trading name) in titles/meta descriptions, and target your own brand ("Prima" / "Hello Prima") plus disambiguating copy ("Prima — car insurance, helloprima.co.uk").
4. SEO for your own contact intent: create and index pages answering "contact", "claims number", "complaints", "cancel my policy" queries so your pages, not ours, rank for them.
5. Aggregator listings: ask Go.Compare, Confused.com, Uswitch and Compare the Market to display your brand consistently with a contact route (or link), so post-sale customers are not left searching a bare name.
6. Third-party clean-up: takedown/correction requests to the misrouting contact pages and claims-number sites in 2.7, and correction of the Cylex-type listings.
7. A disambiguation notice on your site and help centre ("We are not connected to Prima Insurance Brokers of Manchester — if you are looking for them, see primainsurance.co.uk", and we would publish the reciprocal), which also gives the AI answer engines clean source text to stop conflating the two firms.
8. The interim contact route discussed at our meeting: a dedicated phone number, email address and named escalation contact to which we can direct the 30–50 misdirected callers per day and forward misdirected correspondence. We ask that this be confirmed in writing, with an agreed process that is compliant with UK GDPR (given callers disclose personal, claims and payment information).

4. What we will do on our side

- Continue to redirect your customers to your correct contact details where we can, and log misdirected contacts so the effect of your remediation can be measured.
- Publish the reciprocal disambiguation notice referred to above.
- Provide, on request, the underlying captures (screenshots and archived HTML with URLs, queries and timestamps) for any item in this document.
