No phone, email, website or FCA details are given, and nothing distinguishes it from Prima Insurance Brokers. This does not prove confusion by itself, but it establishes that the UK's principal aggregator publicly brands the insurer simply as "Prima...", pushing customers who need contact details into an ambiguous web search. Page HTML grep confirmed 0330 088 1135 / 0161 826 1620 do NOT appear.

No "Hello", no link, no contact details, no FCA reference. HTML grep confirmed the broker's numbers do not appear. Bareword "Prima" is the most confusion-prone form for consumers searching for contact details afterwards.

Yet every contact, claims and complaints instruction — 11+ occurrences — points

A consumer following this page for Hello Prima contact/claims/complaints is delivered to Prima Insurance Brokers' website, whose contact page displays 0330 088 1135. This directly evidences third-party conflation of the two businesses and a live mis-routing mechanism for calls, claims notifications, complaints and potentially personal data. Note: the broker's own numbers are not printed on the kaeltripton page itself; the mis-direction is by hyperlink/domain attribution.

Confirmed: not found. The confusion risk evidenced by this agent operates through (a) bare "Prima" branding with no contact details on aggregators (AGG-01/03/04) and (b) third-party contact pages that attribute primainsurance.co.uk to the car insurer (AGG-08), not through aggregators printing the wrong number.

Bing's algorithmic follow-up suggestion "Prima office address Prestwich" steers car-insurance searchers to the broker's premises. A companion capture of the natural-language query "what is the phone number for prima car insurance uk" (screenshot 2026-07-02_bing_what-is-phone-number-prima-car-insurance_serp.png, HTML archived, 01:38 UTC) again returned primainsurance.co.uk/c ontact as result #1.

But the machine-generated answer's second cited source — presented as an equal "Prima Insurance" source and one click away — is the broker's contact page (0330 088 1135). It does not prove any customer actually mis- dialled.

People also ask included: "How do I register a complaint with Prima Financial Services Ltd?"	2026-07-02_bing_prima-insurance-complaints-phone-number_search.png	High	Direct (search-journey evidence)	A Hello Prima customer searching for a complaints number sees exactly one complaints phone number and one complaints postal address on the whole SERP — both the broker's (0161 826 1620 / Prima Financial Services Ltd, Prestwich). Bing's People-also-ask even reframes the generic query as a question about Prima Financial Services Ltd. This is the plausible source of misdirected FOS-preliminary complaints to the broker.
AI-07	K (directory/data ambiguity) + I; A-relevant content	Google Maps	https://www.google.com/maps/search/prima+insurance/@53.4808,-2.2426,11z	prima insurance - Google Maps	prima insurance (Maps, Manchester viewport)	2026-07-02 01:37 UTC	(verbatim): Results panel, listing 1: "Prima Insurance — 5.0 ★★★★★ — 21 Bury New Rd — Closed · Opens 9 AM — +44 330 088 1135". Listing 2: "Prima Insurance — 4.4 ★★★★★ — Insurance agency · Alto Building, 30 Stamford St — Closed · Opens 9 AM" (no phone number displayed). Also listed: Prima Vets, Marsh Commercial, Broker Direct PLC, Prima Finance	2026-07-02_google_maps_prima-insurance-manchester_search.png	High	Direct	On Google Maps the two businesses are indistinguishable by name — both display as "Prima Insurance" with no "Brokers"/"Hello" qualifier in the list view. The broker's listing carries the phone number +44 330 088 1135; the insurer's carries none. A Maps user searching "prima insurance" to phone their car insurer is presented the broker's number as the only "Prima Insurance" number. This is the strongest maps-surface finding and directly supports the wrong-number vector, while noting the number is attached to the broker's own (correctly-located) listing rather than to Hello Prima's listing.

This is the mechanism behind the whole pattern: the customer's most natural lookup surfaces (knowledge panel / Maps) contain no number for the insurer, so the broker's identically-named listing/number fills the vacuum. Also note the profile is named "Prima Insurance", not "Hello Prima".

FCA- authorised motor insurance provider") yet names primainsurance.co.uk — the broker's domain — as "Prima's official website" for the customer service number, the claims line and even "login URLs". Any reader following it lands on the broker's contact page (0330 088 1135 / info@primainsurance.co.uk). It publishes no number itself, so it is wrong-website rather than wrong-number evidence, but it is a live third-party page (dated "2026") actively conflating the two firms for contact purposes. It ranked in search results for "prima insurance customer service number" queries at capture time.

Given the current public web corpus, the assistant repeatedly presented the broker's 0330 088 1135 / 0161 826 1620 / Prestwich address as the official contact and complaints details "for Prima car insurance", blending in Hello Prima's claims line as if one company. The account is Italian-language and effectively dormant (profile shows "1 posts" in header but "hasn't posted" in feed — posts deleted or geo-restricted). A UK customer searching X for "Prima Insurance" finds this account; the broker has no X presence. This is consistent with brand-namespace overlap created by the insurer's own naming choices.

Then I receive an email saying my policy is cancelled"). NCB proof-chasing is characteristic of a personal-lines motor insurer's onboarding process; primainsurance.co.uk presents itself as a commercial/business insurance broker. There is no business reply and the reviewer does not name the product. This is consistent with a Hello Prima customer reviewing the wrong Prima, but does not prove it. Classified: Probable.
